Princes Street is the finest street in Edinburgh and admittedly without a rival in all Europe. Practically a mile long, on one side it is lined with splendid shops and magnificent hotels, clubs and public offices, while on the other is a series of beautifully laid out gardens decorated with statues and monuments, including the graceful Scott Monument (1,200 feet high) erected after designs by Kemp in 1840-4.

My dear little Katy

I am very, very sorry to say that I shall not be able to be in L. before Saturday, in fact it is quite likely that it will be Sunday afternoon. As far as I can see at present I can't leave here before Saturday, but I shall try everything to avoid travelling on Sunday & then spoil the whole day. I shall let you know more definitely on Thursday morning & in the meantime, w. m. e. etc. ff
